TRIVIA!

What country has the most daily newspapers in the world?

Answer: India

It's hard to imagine not having sunshine in Florida, but for people who live in Sweden, not having sunlight is a common occurrence in the Winter. In areas around Stockholm there can be around 5 1/2hrs of sunlight a day, but for areas further north, there are just 4 hours of twilight. The rest of the time is spent in about 20 hours of complete darkness. All is not lost though, in February-March timeframe the light returns bringing beautiful images of Spring Winter. The best places to capture this is in the Swedish mountains, where you can see the world below blanketed by snow, and the warm glow of towns in far off distances.
